

Suicide Bereavement Support Group

The death of those we love and care for is difficult. For those that lose a loved one to suicide, grief can have added complexities.

It can be isolating as there are often unanswered questions, feelings of guilt or anger, which can prevent us from moving through the grieving process.

Mid and North East Essex Mind is here to offer support to those who feel that joining a group could be beneficial. This group welcomes anyone affected by suicide, whether they are family members or friends.
